

Program User Manual

This document explains how to use the scheduling program step-by-step. The application generates a personalized academic schedule based on your preferences, interests, major, minor(s), and course constraints.

Important: Screenshots referenced throughout the guide are included in the same folder as this User Manual PDF.

Step 1 — Launch the Program

Run the program and wait while it scrapes Penn course data in real time. Depending on your internet connection and system performance, this process may take a short moment.

Step 2 — Enter Your Major

Once the user interface opens, enter your primary major exactly as intended.

Step 3 — Enter Your Minor(s)

Input one or more minors you would like to pursue. The system will use this information when generating your schedule.

Step 4 — Select Desired Electives

Enter any elective courses or academic areas you are interested in taking.

Step 5 — Exclude Courses

Specify any courses you do not want included in your schedule. This helps the program avoid unwanted subjects or professors.

Step 6 — Enter Your Interests

Provide your academic or personal interests so the program can recommend more relevant courses.

Step 7 — Set Maximum CU per Semester

Choose the maximum number of Course Units (CU) you would like to take each semester.

Step 8 — Enter Your Starting Year

Select the academic year in which you plan to begin your studies.

Step 9 — Generate and Review Your Schedule

After all fields are completed, allow the program to generate your personalized schedule. Review the results and make adjustments if needed.

Tip: For the best experience, double-check all entered information before generating the schedule. The more accurately you provide your preferences, the better the generated academic plan will match your goals.
